As the frequency, size and complexity of competition investigations, disputes and class actions continue to grow in multiple jurisdictions, organisations are increasingly facing extreme risks to their businesses. In some cases, these issues can be widely publicised with serious implications for a company's brand and reputation.

The Ankura team provides economic, financial, statistical, compliance and operational expertise to law firms and corporations with a particular focus on competition claims. Our diverse and experienced professionals offer critical insight and support covering the full spectrum of competition and antitrust challenges, to arm our clients with the empirical research and facts they need to make their case. Key areas are:

COMPETITION RISK REVIEWS AND COMPLIANCE

- Our antitrust and competition specialists understand potential compliance threats and deliver programmes to help clients see and react to potential competition risks within their operations. We assist with the design implementation and monitoring of compliance programmes helping clients to make informed strategic decisions and proactively manage compliance concerns.

INTERNAL INVESTIGATION AND RESPONSES TO DAWN RAIDS

- Unannounced inspections or dawn raids from antitrust authorities require a rapid and coordinated response. Our forensic accountants and investigation specialists provide expert technical accounting and investigation support to respond to internal whistleblowing and dawn raids. Crisis management from a team of professionals who work closely with legal counsel and who understand the regulatory regime are essential to minimising the disruption and damage caused. We also advise on preparing dawn raid guidelines and response procedures to follow internally.

DAMAGES CALCULATIONS AND ASSESSMENTS

- Our damages experts have considerable testifying experience before the competition authorities and the High Court providing robust, independent, defensible estimates of loss and damages arising from anti-competitive behaviour. We act for both claimants and respondents giving us a unique perspective of parties approach and case strategy.

VISUAL COMMUNICATIONS

- Ankura's visual communications consulting group knows the power of visual persuasion. We deliver strategic presentations designed to clarify and emphasise key themes and issues affecting our clients' business that prove effective in courtrooms, conference rooms, and boardrooms.

Collective Redress

Regimes for providing justice to large groups of individuals who have suffered harm are developing at pace around the world. Collective proceedings typically involve large numbers of class members and the aggregated indemnities can be very high. The nature of these types of cases often means that they are complex to manage, as there are many individual aspects to keep track of, even under a single cause of action.

We have extensive experience of providing strategic advice to all parties involved in complex class actions and group claims. We bring decades of experience on some of the largest mass claims in the world, with total compensation exceeding $50 billion, arising from matters such as antitrust, product liability, environmental damage, personal injury, employment disputes, data rights and more. Our talented global team offers insight from the earliest stages of potential class actions, anticipating the need to deliver a robust settlement scheme at the end of the case.

CLASS CERTIFICATION

- We partner with our clients throughout the class certification process to certify claims, provide alternative arguments, and determine liability.

LIABILITY AND DAMAGES ESTIMATION

- Calculating damages associated with class actions requires a diverse skillset and a comprehensive understanding of the litigation. It is often difficult to rely solely on common practices within one discipline to estimate damages appropriately. We combine a multidisciplinary approach with our experience to arrive at accurate and defensible estimates.

PRE-SETTLEMENT STRATEGY AND NEGOTIATIONS

- Drawing on our significant depth in quantitative analytics and probabilistic modelling, we give clients the information they need to make critical decisions regarding litigation and resolution strategies.

MASS CLAIMS RISK ADVISORY
